Sensetech Systems and Lehavot Announce Exclusive UK Partnership for KitchenShield Fire Suppression System

Sensetech Systems is proud to announce an exclusive UK partnership with Lehavot for the supply, installation, maintenance, recharge, and repair of the internationally acclaimed KitchenShield fire suppression system.

To mark the occasion, Lehavot's International Development Manager, Eyal Kaully, and Chief Engineer, Elan Alchalel, visited the UK for a two-day strategic meeting with the Sensetech team. The visit celebrated the formalisation of the partnership and laid the groundwork for a comprehensive sales and marketing strategy for the years ahead.

KitchenShield is one of the few kitchen suppression systems globally that not only meets but exceeds international standards and approvals. With a host of unique features and benefits, it presents a compelling solution for commercial kitchen operators and the broader hospitality sector. Its versatility also makes it an ideal choice for mobile foodservice vehicles and static catering units, which continue to grow in popularity.

Sensetech plans to officially launch KitchenShield in the UK in early January 2026. To receive updates on the product release, please email your request to:
